APPLYING FOR A PARTNER MIGRATION VISA
Prospective Marriage(temporary) - Subclass 300

Who should apply for a Prospective Marriage (temporary) – subclass 300 visa?

A Prospective Marriage (fiancé(e)) visa is for applicants who are engaged to be married to their eligible sponsor and they intend to marry within 9 months after the visa is granted.

How much will this visa cost?

There is an application charge for this visa. This will not be refunded if your application is unsuccessful, or if you decide to withdraw your application after you have lodged it. Please ensure that you pay the correct amount applicable to you and any additional charges for each family member included in your application. See: <http://www.border.gov.au/Trav/Visa-1>

Where do I lodge my application?

All visa applications should be lodged at the Australian Visa Application Centre (AVAC) in Myanmar operated by VFS Global.

What happens after I have lodged my application with the Australian Visa Office Myanmar?

Once you have lodged your application with the AVAC you will be issued a receipt for your payment. The application will be transferred and processed in the Australian Visa Office in Bangkok, Thailand. Staff from the Australian Visa in Bangkok will send you an acknowledgement letter along with a file reference number. You will need to refer to the file reference number when contacting the Embassy.

How long will it take?

All applications for migration are assessed in the order they are received by this office. The processing time service standard (i.e. from the time we receive your application until a decision is made) for a prospective marriage visa (Subclass 300) is 12 months. This timeframe can be longer where an application is not complete, where there are health and character concerns or a history of non-compliance with Australian immigration law.

What will help me get my application processed faster?

You should ensure you lodge a complete visa application that provides all the information necessary for a decision to be made. You should support your application with as much information as possible at the time of lodgement as a decision may be made solely on the information that you have provided with your application.

What is the health/medical examination process?

You and members of your family unit must undergo health examinations, including all children under the age of 18 years as well as dependants who may not live with you, even if they are not migrating. If you or any of your dependent relatives do not meet health requirements, you may not be granted a partner category visa.

The medical examinations should be conducted only after a visa application has been validly lodged with the Embassy. Once the application is lodged, the case officer will provide you with a "Health Assessment" letter (by email or mail). The Panel Doctor will need to see this letter as part of the medical examination process and you should take the letter with you when you go to the Panel Doctor for your examination.

Medical examinations must be undertaken by a doctor from a list of approved panel physicians provided by the Visa and Immigration Office, Australian Embassy Myanmar.

Telephone: +95 1 667 879

Fax: +95 1 667 866

Doctor(s): Dr Chantal Bonfils or Dr Khin Cho Htay

I have many photographs and a lot of evidence of our relationship, should I include it all in my application?

No, we only need to see a small selection of photographs of you and your family or evidence of the relationship. Ideally, this evidence should reflect the length of your relationship from the time you met until now. Large volumes of photographs and documents are not required. If required your case officer may request you attend an interview.

Other important things to note:

- If you are granted the Prospective Marriage (subclass 300) visa, you must not marry before you enter Australia on that visa. However, you must marry your fiancé within 9 months of your visa being granted and, if you wish then to apply for a Partner visa, you must do so before your Prospective Marriage visa ceases. Your marriage can take place either in or outside Australia, but you must have entered Australia on your Prospective Marriage visa at least once before the marriage takes place.

If you marry your fiancé before you are granted this visa, you must write to the department requesting that your application be withdrawn and changed to an application for a Partner (subclasses 309 and 100) visa. You must provide evidence of your marriage, such as a certified copy of the extract from the relevant marriage registry office.

- Do not provide original documents unless requested. You should provide ‘certified copies’ of original documentation. Documents not in English must be accompanied by accredited English translations. 'Certified copies' are copies authorised, or stamped as being true copies of originals, by a person or agency recognised by the law of the country in which you currently reside. The only original document you need to provide is your police certificate.

Can I ask another person to deal with the Embassy on my behalf?

Australian privacy laws prevent this office from responding to enquiries from people not authorised by the applicant. This includes the person providing support to the application. If you want to authorise another person to be able to discuss your application with this office, or for them to receive correspondence about the application, you should indicate this on the application form, a written statement or by using a Form 956.

<http://www.border.gov.au/Trav/Visa/Usin/Getting-help-to-apply-for-a-visa>

If there are any changes in your circumstances following lodgement of your application, you are obliged to inform us about them. You may use Form 1022 Notification of Changes in Circumstances for this purpose.

Australia’s visa label policy

The Australian Government does not require holders of Australian visas to have a visa label in their passport.

We electronically record all visas issued to non-citizens providing them permission to travel, enter and/or remain in Australia. This means that evidence of a visa grant in the form of a visa label is no longer routinely issued to visa holders. Instead, electronic visas are linked to a visa holder’s current passport which enables us to provide accurate, secure and real-time information about a visa holder’s visa details. It is also more secure than issuing a visa label as it reduces the risk of fraud.

Having this electronic connection also enables online checking of visa details by visa holders, airlines, registered Australian organisations and Australian government agencies.

About your visa

When you receive your Australian visa you are issued with a visa grant notification letter that explains the conditions of your visa including period of validity and entry requirements. You should retain this for your own reference and may wish to carry it with you when you travel as it contains important information about your visa. The information contained within the visa grant notification letter will help you check your visa details online using the department’s Visa Entitlement Verification Online service, known as VEVO

Initial entry date

After your visa has been issued, you must enter Australia by an initial entry date. The initial entry is determined by the validity of your medical examination and police clearances which are valid for 12 months after being issued. Whichever of these clearances expires first will determine the initial entry date that you must enter Australia. The initial entry date cannot be changed under any circumstance.

If you have any dependents migrating with you to Australia, they may have conditions on their visas including;

- They cannot enter Australia before you
- They cannot marry or be in a de-facto relationship before they enter Australia

Application online

If you lodge your application online through ImmiAccount, you should upload all supporting documents into the system at the time of lodgement. Failure to do so may lead to delays in the processing of your visa application. The maximum size for each file you attach is 5MB and you can upload a maximum of 60 files. If attaching several photos, please combine these into a single document before uploading.

If you are requested to provide more supporting documentation for your application, you should submit (upload) supporting documents online via your ImmiAccount. To attach documents to your visa application, please login to your ImmiAccount, find the application details page and click on the Attach Document button on the right hand side of the screen. The maximum size for each file you attach is 5MB.

For more information on ImmiAccount, please visit <http://www.border.gov.au/Trav/Visa/Immi>

Additional information regarding the attachment process can be found here: <http://www.border.gov.au/Trav/Visa/Atta>
